CHAPTER HOUSE LANE

BRAD HAYLOCK

'Smells like Community Spirit'

EXHIBITION: 2 May – 2 June 2013
LAUNCH: Thursday 2 May, 6–8pm

Brad Haylock, Untitled, 2013, risograph print, 297 x 400mm

Chapter House Lane presents an installation by Brad Haylock this May. 'Smells like Community Spirit' evokes the political perspective that runs prominently through his practice. Join us, along with the artist, as we unveil this new work in an opening from 6-8pm, Thursday 2 May.

This new body of work extends the artist's interest in public address and contemporary citizenship. Its points of reference are the DIY utopianism of 70s self-build architecture, visual merchandising, and a Situationist reading of Josef Albers' Interaction of Color.

Brad Haylock is an artist and graphic designer, whose practice also spans writing, curation and publishing. Brad is a lecturer at Monash Art Design and Architecture, and is the founding editor of Surpllus, an independent publisher of printed matter pertaining to critical and speculative practices.
